US-2000 AB with Printer

All of the US-2000 AB systems are available with a Thermal Transfer Printer. This system allows you to print product information like the date, the lot number or a bar code on the band. The programmable printer can provide serial, item-specific coding with each band. When printing materials for products of the same size, the orientation of the print will be consistent. The thermal printer can print on all types of US-2000 materials.
